HOCKEY EAST ALL-STARS SELECTED Bonanza year for all three Boston schools

Regular season champion Boston College led the way in Hockey East’s annual All-Star voting, seeing three of its athletes selected to the All-Star team for the second time in their respective careers. Defenseman Andrew Alberts and forwards Patrick Eaves and Ryan Shannon were all selected to the First Team.

Boston University and Northeastern joined BC in giving the All-Star teams a dominating Boston flavor. Northeastern posted its best representation since 1994 among the league’s elite, fielding two First-Teamers (goaltender Keni Gibson and forward Jason Guerriero) and one Second-Teamer. BU senior Bryan Miller was a strong selection as a First Team All-Star defenseman, while teammate John Curry was just edged for First Team goaltender status by NU’s Gibson. New Hampshire had two Second Team selections, while Merrimack and UMass Lowell had one each.

The Superskills Hockey All-Rookie Team was led by three unanimous selections, BU linemates Chris Bourque and Peter MacArthur, and UMass Lowell goaltender Peter Vetri, the league’s Rookie of the Year. But there were two other goaltenders that garnered the recognition they deserved as All-Rookie teamers – BC’s still undefeated Cory Schneider and UNH’s Kevin Regan. Massachusetts placed two on the rookie squad, No. 2 scorer P.J. Fenton and defenseman David Leaderer, while the University of Maine had one popular selection, ever-improving defenseman Bret Tyler.
