SEMIFINALISTS FILL OUT ALL-STAR ROSTER Boston College leads the way with three First Team choices

When the games begin Friday at the TD Banknorth Garden, it will be the equivalent of an All-Star competition, as 11 of this year's 12 Hockey East All-Stars, and four of the six All-Rookie selections, will take the ice.

Boston College leads the way with three First-Team All-Stars in Player of the Year Chris Collins, tandem sniper Brian Boyle and all-around blueliner Peter Harrold. The Eagles also named Cory Schneider, the Second-Team All-Star goaltender, and two all-rookie teamers. Boston University is similarly represented, boasting the First-Team goalie in John Curry and three other selections among the All-Stars and rookies. The University of Maine had one player on each squad while UNH has two second teamers, including a repeat selection in senior defenseman Brian Yandle.

The University of Massachusetts was the only non-semifinalist to name an All-Star, as talented two-way defenseman Marvin Degen was selected, while Vermont had two players who received honorable mention status. The All-Rookie Team provided additional diversity as Providence defenseman Cody Wild and Merrimack forward Rob Ricci were among those selected as the best of the first-year crop.
